

JOHN W. WYCKOFF.

MARCH 5, 1840.

Read, and laid upon the table.

Mr. C. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT :

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of John W. Wyckoff, report :

That the petitioner states, under oath, that he was draughted into the service of the United States in the spring of 1812, as a private soldier, for six months; and submits a regular discharge, as evidence of his having served out his time faithfully: that during said service, he was taken sick with the measles, while much exposed on guard; and from a violent cold taken during his exposure, his health has been measurably destroyed, so as to render him unable to procure a living by manual labor. Several individuals certify that previous to his joining the army he was a stout, robust man, but that since his discharge he has been in a feeble state of health, and that he is an honest man, and that they believe his statement to be correct.

One physician certifies, under oath, that he is acquainted with the petitioner, and has examined him; that he is diseased, his debility is at least three-fourths, and that he believes it was caused by the measles. Two other physicians state, under oath, that previous to the petitioner's joining the army he was stout and healthy, but that he has been much afflicted since his return. There is no direct testimony going to show that his exposures were extraordinary, or that his disease was contracted while in the service, other than his own statement.

The committee, therefore, make an unfavorable report.

Blair & Rives, printers.

JOHN W. WYCKOFF.

MARCH 5, 1840.

Read, and laid upon the table.

Mr. C. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of John W. Wyckoff, report:

That the petitioner states, under oath, that he was drafted into the service of the United States in the spring of 1812, as a private soldier, for six months; and submits a regular discharge, as evidence of his having served out his time faithfully: that during said service, he was taken sick with the measles, while much exposed on guard; and from a violent cold taken during his exposure, his health has been measurably destroyed, so as to render him unable to procure a living by manual labor. Several individuals certify that previous to his joining the army he was a stout, robust man, but that since his discharge he has been in a feeble state of health, and that he is an honest man, and that they believe his statement to be correct.

One physician certifies, under oath, that he is acquainted with the petitioner, and has examined him; that he is diseased, his debility is at least three-fourths, and that he believes it was caused by the measles. Two other physicians state, under oath, that previous to the petitioner's joining the army he was stout and healthy; but that he has been much afflicted since his return. There is no direct testimony going to show that his exposures were extraordinary, or that his disease was contracted while in the service, other than his own statement.

The committee, therefore, make an unfavorable report.

Bliss & Rivers, printers.